FROM THE PRINCIPAL (Mr Fanning)

Dear Parents and Caregivers,
We have continued the focus on improving school attendance this year. In recent years across all school sectors attendance has been an issue and we will be maintaining our focus on attendance this year and in future. We know that students who attend school regularly find it easier to keep up with work and they also find it easier to form strong friendships with others. Unless there are significant reasons for your child not to be at school on any given day (they may be ill etc.), then we urge parents and caregivers to

Feast of Pentecost Sunday 20 May 2018.

Sunday 20 May was Pentecost Sunday and a time when we remember the very first coming of the Holy Spirit to the Apostles. We remember that the Apostles received the gift of the Holy Spirit and went out to spread the Good News to all people.

Pentecost Sunday is a commemoration and celebration of the receiving of the Holy Spirit by the early church. John the Baptist prophesied of the first Pentecost when Jesus would baptize with the Holy Spirit and with fire (Matthew 3:11). Jesus confirmed this prophecy with the promise of the Holy Spirit to the disciples in John 14:26.

The Holy Spirit continues to touch us in many ways and sometimes through the most surprising...

"A life unexamined is not worth living" - Socrates

Why commence this article with this quote? What does it mean for us as an educational institution and our students?

Socrates is considered the father of modern philosophy and has been credited with being the first moral philosopher of the Western tradition. Socrates challenged the values, principles and understandings of his time. Instead of examining how the world is, his conversations and questions focused on how we, as human beings, should be in the world; how our ethical conduct and moral choices impact others and society. From this perspective his statement, A life unexamined is not worth living, challenges us to examine who we are, our life purpose and to act ethically and consciencably.

As a Catholic community we aim to guide the people in our care to live a life examined; a life examined from the example of Jesus. We challenge them to conduct themselves in a manner that shows respect for themselves and dignity to all peoples. We challenge them when they make mistakes, through the process of restorative justice and RISEUP, to examine their actions and choices and make amends. And we acknowledge them when their actions and choices reflect the values of Christ to which we all aspire.

We are continually proud and affirmed by the goodness we see in the young men and women in our care.

COUNSELLOR'S CORNER

How do you feel?

When something's not quite right, the first thing we'll probably notice is an emotion. Mad, sad, scared or glad – these four represent an easy short-hand way of identifying the common emotions we all experience. When you don't know how you feel, one or more of those four can help name the feeling.

Surprise and disgust are two other basic emotions thought to be universal and observable across cultures and species. But our emotional lives are far richer than that short list. Look at all those emoticons!

A recent study has mapped 27 different emotions. They are not distinct but grade into one another: anxiety
